What is a Whifflepoof?

What You'll Need:
Small log (about 4 inches in diameter, 18 inches long), a few dozen large nails, screw eye, heavy twine.

To make the Whifflepoof:
With the help of a parent or adult, take a small log and drive a few dozen nails into it, leaving about two inches of each nail still sticking out, until the log bristles with nails. Take a large screw eye and screw it into one end of the log. Tie a length of rope about four feet long to the screw eye.

To play the game:
Have one person drag the Whifflepoof through woods or an open field while the other players close their eyes. The person dragging the Whifflepoof should make as long a trail as possible in the area. When the trail is done, the rest of the players attempt to follow it.
