Nature’s Perfume

Say, is that peppermint? Give your nose a treat by planting lovely scented geraniums

What You’ll Need: Potted scented-leaf geranium plants

Many plants have flowers that smell good. But some plants have leaves that smell good. A good example is the scented geranium. Its scent can range from peppermint to lemon to nutmeg—even coconut! You can grow it in pots indoors, or outdoors in summer. Buy some small potted geraniums at a plant nursery. Be sure to tell the nursery worker that you want "scented" geraniums, because there are many varieties of geranium that are not scented. Let your friends sniff them and guess the scents.