Making a magnetizing coil
A piece of ordinary glass tubing wound with close turns of copper wire serves to magnetize knitting needles. A battery supplies the current required, but should not be left connected longer than necessary.

Or magnetize an iron rod as shown in the diagram.