Lunch Guests
If your kids have ever stuck out their tongues at a dish you've prepared, here's your chance to turn the tables by serving up a couple of silly cold-cut sandwiches.

INGREDIENTS
Mayonnaise and mustard
Sandwich roll
Cold cuts, sliced raw vegetables, and softened cream cheese

1. Spread mayonnaise and mustard on the bottom half of a sandwich roll. Add a slice of ham or another cold cut. Then fold a second slice of meat so that it resembles a tongue and lay it across the bun, as shown.

2. Now create a face on the bun top using sliced raw vegetables, olives, and cherry tomatoes for features and cream cheese for glue. (The cheese sticks best if you first blot dry the veggies.)

3. Finally, use a potato peeler or grater to create long carrot curls to pile on top of the sandwich, or push bell pepper slices into the bun for a spiky hairdo.
